

I would highly recommend Steve Christensen to any marketing organization. I have worked with Steve on several projects at Alpine Chapel from organizing work on the facilities, to updating IT equipment to selecting new elders for the church. Steve is an encourager and a person who drives to get the work done. Steve's knowledge of web site marketing, video production and print marketing would make him valuable in any organization that needs to present their products or services to the market place. His work is always first class and he adds the details that makes all his projects professional quality. Steve also knows how to get the most out of a limited budget. As the Alpine budget has been reduced, Steve has looked for ways that the church can use technology to reduce costs, such as using QR readers to reduce the need for printed materials. Beyond technical skills, Steve brings a high level of character and a desire to do the right thing for the organization. He is the type of person that any organization would value. I wish him all the best.

-Dan Pierce